1. GRANT OF LICENSE

The enclosed Software is provided under a license, not sold. You are granted the following rights and privileges, subject to the limitations, restrictions, and terms outlined in this Agreement.

1.1. If you are a legally licensed user, your rights to use the Software are determined by the license type specified in the registration letter provided by Devart upon purchase. You are entitled to the following:

- Under the Desktop Edition, you may install and use the Software on a single desktop computer, provided it is accessed by no more than one person at a time, either directly or remotely, and exclusively for purposes in compliance with this Agreement. If the computer allows simultaneous access by multiple users, a Server Edition is required. The Desktop Edition is valid for one desktop installation only.
- Under the Server Edition, you may install and use the Software on a single server, provided it is accessed by multiple users simultaneously, either directly or remotely. This includes, but is not limited to, web servers, application servers, batch servers, and desktop workstations where multiple concurrent users can access the Software. The Server Edition is valid for one server installation and may only be used by a single legal entity in compliance with this Agreement.
- Under the Server Standard Edition, you may install and use the Software on a single server with up to six (6) cores, provided it is accessed by multiple users simultaneously, either directly or remotely. This includes, but is not limited to, web servers, application servers, batch servers, and desktop workstations where multiple concurrent users can access the Software. The Server Standard Edition is valid for one server installation and may only be used by a single legal entity in compliance with this Agreement.
- Under the Server Enterprise Edition, you may install and use the Software on a single server with an unlimited number of cores, provided it is accessed by multiple users simultaneously, either directly or remotely. This includes, but is not limited to, web servers, application servers, batch servers, and desktop workstations where multiple concurrent users can access the Software. The Server Enterprise Edition is valid for one server installation and may only be used by a single legal entity in compliance with this Agreement.

1.2. If you are a legally licensed user, your rights to use the Software are determined by the License Type specified in the registration letter provided by Devart upon purchase.

- Under the Subscription-based License, you may install and use the Software on a single computer only during the subscription term specified at purchase. An Internet connection is required to activate the license and verify its status during use. Once the subscription term expires, you must either discontinue using the Software or renew the license for a new subscription term.
- Under the Perpetual License, you may install and use a specific version of the Software on a single computer without requiring an active subscription. A subscription, if active, grants access to new product releases, regular updates, and support for new server versions during the subscription term.
- Under the Site License, you may install and use the Software on one or more computers within a single company, in accordance with this Agreement.
- Under the OEM License, you may install and use the Software on one or more computers within a single company and deploy it as part of a licensee's application to web servers, application servers, batch servers, desktops, and other end-user devices. The OEM License allows the installation and use of the application containing the Software without incurring additional fees in favor of the licensor.

1.3. If you are a legally licensed user of the Software, you are entitled to the following:

- Make one copy of the Software solely for archival purposes, or copy the Software onto the hard disk of your computer while retaining the original for archival purposes.
