License Types

1) Developer / deployment license

A "Developer License" licenses only ONE developer to create ONE .NET application using our product. A "Developer License" must be purchased for each developer utilizing the component; alternatively, a "Company License" can be purchased which licenses all developers at one physical location. "Developer License" is not royalty free. You need to purchase an additional license for each deployment. The developer/deployment license does not include any support. You need to purchase a maintenance plan if you need support.

2) Developer / deployment license with maintenance

A "Developer License with Maintenance" licenses only ONE developer to create ONE .NET application using our product. A "Developer License with Maintenance" must be purchased for each developer utilizing the component; alternatively, a "Company License" can be purchased which licenses all developers at one physical location. "Developer License with Maintenance" is not royalty free. You need to purchase an additional license for each deployment. The developer license with maintenance includes technical support and software updates for one year.

3) Company / redistributable license

A "Company License" licenses all developers within one company at one physical location to create an unlimited number of .NET applications using ExpertPdf. If there is more than one physical location for your company, you would need to purchase the appropriate licenses for each location.

"Company License" is royalty free. "Company License" includes priority email support and full major and minor version upgrades for a year.

4) Enterprise license

An "Enterprise License" licenses all developers within one company at all physical locations to create an unlimited number of .NET applications using ExpertPdf. "Enterprise License" is royalty free.

"Enterprise License" includes priority email support and full major and minor version upgrades for a year.

License Renewals

Special renewal prices are available for existing customers in certain conditions. To qualify for a license renewal you need to purchase the renewal within 3 months of the maintenance plan expiration. Otherwise, a full license needs to be purchased.
